2. DAILY LOG ENTRY FORM

- Date: 12 October 2026

- 1. Assigned Task:

  ETL Pipeline Assembly — Generate -- Validate -- Process -- Store Pipeline Execution

- 2. What Was Studied:

  Studied the ETL (Extract, Transform, Load) workflow and its application to synthetic sensor telemetry data. Examined dataset generation, CSV extraction, data-quality validation, record separation, data type conversion, timestamp processing and structured output storage. Also studied the use of Pandas Data Frames for tabular data manipulation and JSON for pipeline execution summaries.

- 3. What Was Implemented:

  Developed and executed a standalone Python ETL pipeline in `Day8/codes/etl_pipeline.py`. Generated an independent synthetic sensor dataset containing 250 records, extracted the data using Pandas, and applied validation checks for timestamps, record identifiers, sensor IDs, flight phases and numeric readings. Separated accepted and rejected records, processed 242 accepted records, and saved the rejected records with validation reasons. Generated processed CSV data, rejected CSV data, a JSON execution summary and an execution log.

- 4.Tools / Libraries Used:

  VS Code, PowerShell, Python 3.14.6, CSV ,Pandas , Pathlib , JSON.
